Projects

- Destination Finder
  - MERN stack application that uses React Redux for state management. Allows users to find points of interest using an auto-complete search bar. Users can save locations by creating an account. Autocomplete and location data is provided by Google's Places API. Express server implements CRUD features for saved locations.
- Messaging Web App
  - MERN stack application that uses React Redux for state management. Allows users to create accounts which allows them to send messages to other users. Other features include password encryption and JWT authentication.
- Pet Finder
  - Angular web application using Firebase data storage and authentication. Utilized the Petfinder API by Purina for queries based on zip code. Allows users to store favorite pets and view photos and description about the animals.
- Bookstore
  - MEAN stack application that allows customers to create accounts using bcrypt.js and login using JWT authentication. Customers can view books, add items to their cart, checkout, and view and cancel orders. Admins can sign in and perform CRUD operations on books, orders, and users. Admins can also create new admin accounts.
